

Shelton lumber mill sexual harassment lawsuit settled

by MIMI JUNG / KING 5 News

Bio | Email | Follow: @MimiJungKING5

KING5.com

Posted on July 19, 2011 at 6:51 PM

Updated Tuesday, Jul 19 at 6:57 PM

SHELTON, Wash. -- Two Shelton women who sued a Shelton lumber mill have settled for nearly $1 million.

Lorrie Haskins and another co-worker received $900,000 after they claim they endured years of sexual harassment by co-workers and management at Mason County Forest Products.

They sued their employer after they say their complaints fell on deaf ears.

"They would call us the C word, they would leave pornography in the porta-potties," said Haskins.

Haskins said she hopes this encourages other women dealing with the same abuse in the workplace to come forward.

The mill is now owned by Simpson Lumber.

- What is KING 5 Social?

Latest Later

Share comments, links, photos, stories, polls and connect with other members of the KING 5 Social community.

- Sign in to comment

We welcome your comments on this story's topic. Off-topic comments, personal attacks, and inappropriate language may be flagged and removed, and comment privileges blocked, per our Terms of Service. Thanks for keeping the comments space respectful. HTML is not allowed.